Seek Help and Save a Life

The 9-1-1 Good Samaritan law provides immunity from minor drug possession offenses for qualified individuals that make a good faith effort to obtain emergency medical assistance during an overdose.

Who will be a qualified individual, and what are minor drug possession offenses?

Qualified individuals are individuals that: seek assistance for another individual that experiences a drug overdose; experience a drug overdose and seek assistance; and experiences an overdose and become the subject of another person seeking medical assistance.

What are the responsibilities of qualified individuals to receive immunity?

Qualified individuals must comply with peace officers and get a behavioral health screening within 30 days of the overdose.

MENTAL HEALTH & ADDICTION TREATMENT PROVIDERS

OUTPATIENT care involves health or mental health care within the community. What this generally will look like is you will go to a provider for your visit, which might include seeing a prescriber for medication, a nurse for a check-up, or another professional for counseling or help. They work with you to create your recovery plan.

INPATIENT care means you are admitted to a hospital on a doctor's orders. In general, inpatient care typically involves a short hospital stay, but it can be long-term depending on your needs.

MEDICATION ASSISTED TREATMENT (MAT) is the use of FDA-approved medications, usually in combination with therapeutic and recovery supports, for the treatment of opioid addiction or substance use. Doctors prescribe a medication based on the patient's specific medical needs and other factors.

RESIDENTIAL treatment (sometimes called rehabilitation) is a healthcare facility that provides therapy for mental health and/or substance use.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT includes services that provide education, outreach, and individualized care to you, your family, and other important supports in your life so you can learn to manage your symptoms and live as independently as possible. Services include life skills development tools, education about mental illness and medications, development of community supports, and coordination of individualized treatment and other services.

The following is a partial list of mental health and substance use disorder (addiction) treatment facilities in Northwest Ohio. This list is a reference tool, not an endorsement. KNOW YOUR RISK FOR AN OPIOID OVERDOSE

Provided by the Medication-Assisted Treatment Collaborative of Hancock County

Who is at Risk for an Opioid Overdose?

Individuals using opioids for longterm pain management and individuals using heroin.

Others at Risk Include the Following:

- Opiate-dependent
- Stopping MAT treatment (suboxone, vivitrol, methadone)
- Discharged to emergency medical care after opiate poisoning
- Experiencing reduced tolerance due to:
 - trying to stop using on their own
 - withdrawal management (detox)
 - release from jail or prison
 - relapse of recovery
- Injecting opiates
- Using prescription opiates in higher doses than prescribed
- Using opiates in combination with other sedatives such as
 - Alcohol
 - Benzodiazepines (“benzos”)
- Using opiates with conditions such as:
 - Hepatitis C, HIV
 - Liver disease
 - Lung disease, COPD
 - Depression

Low Tolerance = High Risk

Tolerance develops when someone uses an opioid drug regularly. Their body becomes used to the drug and needs a larger or more frequent dose to continue to experience the same effect. The brain adapts to the exposure, allowing the person to use more or a stronger dose without the respiratory system failing.

Loss of Tolerance

Loss of tolerance occurs when someone stops taking an opioid drug after long-term use. The longer a person is opioid-free, the more the brain will attempt to adapt back to its normal state.

When someone loses tolerance and then takes an opioid drug again, they can experience serious adverse effects, including overdose.

Most opiate overdose deaths occur in persons who have just gone through withdrawal or detoxed. Because withdrawal reduces the person’s tolerance, those who have just gone through withdrawal can overdose on a much smaller dose than they used to take.

What is M.A.T.? (Medicated Assisted Treatment)

Medication Assisted Treatment (MAT) is the use of FDA approved medication, usually in combination with therapy and recovery supports, for the treatment of opioid addiction or substance use. Physicians prescribe a medication based on a patient’s specific medical needs and other factors.

Effective Medications Include:

- Buprenorphine (Subutex, Suboxone)
- Naltrexone (Depade, Vivitrol)
- Methadone

PATHS TO RECOVERY

“Recovery is a process of change through which people improve their health and well-being, live self-directed lives, and strive to reach their full potential” (SAMHSA, 2023). One’s recovery journey is highly personal and unique and can include a variety of different paths aligned with the four core dimensions of recovery: Health, Home, Purpose, and Community.

Health

Overcome or control disease(s) or symptoms, and make informed, healthy choices that support physical and emotional well-being.

Medication Treatment

Many illnesses and disorders have medicinal treatment options. Substance use is no different. MAT is a valid path to recovery for some and should not be dismissed as simply swapping one addictive substance for another. MAT can help people manage addiction to help maintain recovery.

Physical and Emotional Well-being

Fitness and nutrition are essential factors for restoring physical and mental health. Exercise can be a method to offset stressors, aid in relaxation, improve sleep quality, and increase the ability to manage stress. Adequate nutrients and hydration give the body energy to help build and repair organ tissue, strengthen the immune system, and reduce the risk of relapse.

Stress management and meditation involve recognizing the signs of stress, thereby minimizing the long-term consequences of chronic stress on the body. Some options for dealing with stress include relaxation techniques such as exercise, proper nutrition, yoga, and spirituality.

Home

Have a stable and safe place to live. Recovery housing in Hancock County is designed to help those seeking recovery from a substance use disorder rebuild their lives and rejoin the community.

Purpose

Performing meaningful daily activities, such as work, school volunteering, family care, or creative endeavors, and having the independence, income, and resources to participate in society.

Creative expression can help connect people at all stages of life or during recovery with that inner healing voice. Common methods of artistic expression include drama, dance, music, creative writing, visual arts, and photography.

Community

Have relationships and social networks that provide support, friendship, love, and hope.

Anonymous groups

Alcoholics Anonymous (A.A.), Heroin Anonymous (H.A.), Cocaine Anonymous (C.A.), and Narcotics Anonymous (N.A.) are nonprofit fellowships of people struggling with substance use who use strength, hope, and fellowship to help one another seek and maintain abstinence. The only requirement for participation in each group is a desire to stop using that particular substance. There are no membership fees or dues. A.A., H.A., and N.A. are not affiliated with any sect, denomination, political party, organization, or institution. These groups provide a recovery process and peer support networks that work together to meet your needs. Learn more at area53aa.org, heroinanonymus.org, www.ca.org, and www.na.org

Other groups and tools

Celebrate Recovery offers people the opportunity to participate in group fellowship where love and hope combine with the pursuit of God's purpose for our lives at no cost. Participate in identifying feelings of pain, recognizing habits, and addressing blocks. Learn more at: www.celebraterecovery.org

Smart Self-Management and Recovery Training (SMART) is a global community of mutual support groups. Participants find and develop the power within themselves to change and lead fulfilling and balanced lives guided by the science-based 4-Point Program®. More information at: www.smartrecovery.org

Spirituality can help us connect with a community, give us a sense of purpose and grounding, or help us feel humbled as part of something larger. When we feel challenged, overwhelmed, or even excited about a new direction we are about to take, having a spiritual foundation can help us find meaning and achieve overall well-being.

Technology can be a useful recovery tool for mental illness or substance use. Mobile apps are currently available to connect you with a community, create a plan, track recovery time, and save money. Other tools can help monitor habits, nutrition, sleep, and overall well-being, and create a daily mood diary.

Are you a person or family member in recovery who wants to volunteer?

Become a Recovery Guide!

A Recovery Guide is a volunteer who supports and promotes recovery by helping people remove barriers and build recovery capital. Basically, Recovery Guides are people who want to help others find and maintain recovery. Recovery Guides share their knowledge, strength, and hope to help people find their own strengths and pathway to recovery.

What does a Recovery Guide do?

A Recovery Guide may be matched one-on-one with a participant in the program and commits to spending at least one hour a week with that participant.

The Recovery Guide and the participant work together to help the participant begin or maintain their recovery.

Recovery Guides also volunteer at FOCUS to interact with peers, lead classes, teach skills, or just listen. They are present throughout the community, providing peer-based support to those who need it.

Who can be a Recovery Guide? Volunteers can be:

- Individuals with personal lived experience in recovery from a mental health/substance use/trauma
- a family member of someone impacted by a mental health/
substance use/trauma.

Recovery Guides are individuals who have sustained recovery for themselves or their family. Recovery Guides are required to complete an application and training to gain the skills and knowledge needed to be a Recovery Guide.

Why should I volunteer as a Recovery Guide?

Volunteering has many positive benefits! As a Recovery Guide, you would have the opportunity to:

- Learn new skills
- Share your knowledge and experiences with others
- Network within the community
- Develop personal and professional skills

MATERNAL OPIATE MEDICAL SUPPORT (MOMS)

A collaborative community team for the Maternal Opiate Medical Support (MOMS) program has been developed to support the health, safety and well-being of infants and the recovery of pregnant women with opioid use disorders. A family of professionals at Blanchard Valley Hospital (BVH) will establish an individualized support plan for each patient to ensure a safe and stable environment for mother and infant.

The coordination of care will take place between obstetric providers (OB), outpatient medication assisted treatment specialists, outpatient mental health providers, the BVH Labor and Delivery department and the BVH Special Care Nursery (SCN). Experienced OB and SCN staff deliver quality of care during and after pregnancy.

If not already established, staff members can link patients with an OB provider who has privileges to deliver at Blanchard Valley Hospital and a medication assisted treatment specialist.

Additionally, weekly MOMS meetings will provide education and resource information including:

- Learning how to have a healthy baby and pregnancy
- Enrolling in rewards programs
- Talking with healthcare professionals and tour maternity and special care nursery at BVHS
- Smoking cessation
- Recognizing postpartum depression
- Getting ready for your baby's birth
- Learning how to provide the best care for your baby
- Accessing transportation assistance
- Finding the right resources in the community, such as baby supplies, food resources and more
- Obtaining education on Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome

To refer a patient or have questions, please call the BVHS Clinical Navigator of the MOMS Program. 419.429.0170

ADDICTION AND RECOVERY

What is addiction?

Addiction is a treatable chronic medical condition that involves complex interactions between brain circuitry, genetics, the environment, and an individual's life experiences. People with addiction use substances or engage in behaviors that become compulsive and often continue despite harmful consequences.

Prevention efforts and treatment approaches for addiction are generally as successful as those for other chronic conditions. -ASAM, 2019

What is Recovery?

Recovery is a process of change that permits an individual to make healthy choices and improve the quality of their life.

- There are many pathways to recovery. Individuals are unique with specific needs, strengths, goals, health attitudes, behaviors and expectations for recovery.
- Pathways to recovery are highly personal, and generally involve a redefinition of identity in the face of crisis or a process of progressive change.
- Furthermore, pathways are often social, grounded in cultural beliefs or traditions, and involve informal community resources, which provide support for sobriety.

LANGUAGE MATTERS

Language is powerful – especially when talking about addictions. Stigmatizing language perpetuates negative perceptions. Person-first language focuses on the person, not the disorder. When discussing addictions...

SAY THIS...

- Person with substance abuse disorder
- Person in recovery
- Person living with addiction
- Person arrested for a drug law violation
- Decides not to use now
- Medication is a treatment tool
- Has had a setback/setback
- Maintains recovery
- Positive drug test

...INSTEAD OF THIS

- Addict, junkie, drug addict, cocaine user, drug addict
- Ex-addict
- Fighting/suffering from addiction
- Drug offender
- Not compliant
- Medication is a crutch
- Relapse
- Stay clean
- Dirty drug test

HOW TO SUPPORT SOMEONE IN RECOVERY

- Don't judge. Many people in recovery feel judged by their family and friends. Accept them for who they are and refrain from criticism and negativity.
- Be patient. Recovery can be a long, complicated process. People often have setbacks. It's important for them to know that you support them when things get tough.
- Reinforce that recovery is possible. Like other chronic diseases, people can manage addictions successfully.
- Actively listen. Take notice of your loved one's victories and struggles.
- Encourage healthy habits. Cooking, exercising and playing games are all positive, substance-free activities you can do with a person in recovery.
- Suggest a support group. Support groups allow people in recovery to interact with and receive encouragement from others who struggle with addiction.
- Continue to offer encouragement and support. Emphasize that it takes a lot of courage to get help for an addiction.
- Take care of yourself. Take time to participate in activities you enjoy. Spend time with others, or consider joining a support group for friends and families of people with addictions.

TIPS FOR TALKING WITH A LOVED ONE ABOUT THEIR SUBSTANCE USE

- Treat the person with respect and dignity.
- Talk to the person in a quiet, private place when both of you are sober and calm.
- Try to understand the person's perception of their substance use. Ask if they consider their substance use a problem.
- Consider the person's willingness/readiness to talk about substance abuse.
- Don't force the person to admit they have a problem.
- Express your point of view using the word "I," such as "I've noticed..." or "I'm worried..."
- Identify and discuss their behavior instead of criticizing their character.
- Let the person know you are concerned and willing to help.
- Listen without judging the person as bad or immoral.
- Don't label or accuse the person as an "addict."
- Have realistic expectations – learning to manage mental illness takes time.

MAKE YOUR GAME PLAN

WHY SHOULD YOU PAUSE BEFORE YOU PLAY?

With more forms of gambling accessible throughout Ohio, bets can be placed easier and quicker than ever before. But betting too fast can lead to making bets without thinking about the risk, which can lead to developing a problem with gambling. That's why it's so important to take a moment before placing a bet to pause, consider the risks, and set limits.

WHAT IS PROBLEM GAMBLING?

Gambling disorder or gambling addiction is considered a diagnosable and treatable disorder. While problem gambling has its own set of criteria for diagnosis and treatment, many still don't seek help for this potentially life-threatening condition.

WHAT ARE THE DANGERS OF PROBLEM GAMBLING?

Similar to other forms of addiction, problem gambling can have long-lasting effects, such as:

- Suicidal thoughts
- Anxiety
- Depression
- Stress

A SERIOUS ISSUE

Approximately 1 in 5 individuals who struggle with problem gambling contemplate suicide, the highest rate amongst all known addictive disorders.

KNOW THE SIGNS

The signs of a person struggling with gambling are not always easy to see. A few signs to look for include:

- Betting more often or with more money
- Withdrawing from relationships
- Hiding gambling behavior from friends and family
- Borrowing money to relieve financial distress
- Betting more to make up for previous losses

TIPS FOR RESPONSIBLE GAMBLING

There are ways to ensure gambling stays responsible. Here are a few tips to keep gambling safer:

- Set limits on how much and how quickly you bet
- Pay your bills before gambling
- Keep gambling a social activity
- Have other hobbies outside of gambling
- Slow down, press pause, and recognize the risk before betting
